

Reflection

- It's a high-paying job

You can work independently (be your own boss) or with a team

You can work from anywhere

It brings out or improves your creativity (build your own idea from nothing)

It's interesting and fun

It helps you become a better problem-solver

It is a job for the future

There's no least aspect I've noticed so far

- with the learning units i wouldn't use them that much expect when the teacher is explaining overall I'd use YouTube videos to learn web development and W3School to understand how the text styles and everything which i have to input in the web design

- The knowledge gained from the YouTube videos and W3School was a lot now I'm able to understand web design and it made it easy for me to complete my POE because of the tutorials I'd watch then code at the same time, the W3School examples which I'd find and use now I'm able to use CSS styling as well and make my web design look perfect. The POE was made easier because of these 2 things

- Yes i definitely will but I'll be using my skills for side hustle to make some extra cash and i know out there, there are people who want Webs designed for them especially brand owners, artists (rappers, singers and people who deal with art), business owners entrepreneurs to be specific. I know I'd come in handy for them at a certain point will be charging them reasonable amounts but it will actually differ from what design they are looking for in their web.

- From the knowledge i know well it gave me good marks and that I won't be changing it but I'll change those few mistakes i made when creating my website, not reading the instructions properly i would change that but at the same time i managed to do good
